07/26/21

For the third consecutive year, Selendy & Gay has been recognized as a leading litigation firm by Vault.

The firm was named among the top 10 litigation boutiques in the country and was ranked the #2 midsize law firm in New York. As in previous years, the firm appeared on Vault's "Top 150 under 150," a list of the nation's best firms with 150 or fewer lawyers.

In its review, Vault called Selendy & Gay "litigation's shiny new penny," lauding its expertise in antitrust, RICO, class action, securities, trade secrets, energy, consumer products and insolvency disputes, among other areas.

Vault reported, "Selendy and Gay was destined to become a powerhouse litigation shop before it even opened its doors. With the combined expertise of former senior prosecutors and government officials, they have the know-how needed to defend Fortune 500 companies from criminal and regulatory actions...and complex, bet-the-company matters."

The firm's strong commitment to diversity was also praised: "Selendy & Gay values diversity and has the stats to prove it," with Vault noting its more than 50 percent female equity ownership and strong LGBTQ+ attorney base.
