

Jennifer Selendy Speaks at Harvard Law School Celebration

04/09/24

Partner Jennifer Selendy spoke at Harvard Law School's Celebration 70+, which commemorated the 70th Anniversary of the school's first class of women graduates. Jennifer, a Harvard Law School alumna, contributed her insights to the Leaders in Private Practice Panel.

The panel was part of a two-day celebration that brought Harvard Law School graduates together to honor 70 years of inspiration, progress, and opportunity and to hear from notable alumni, including former federal officials, Harvard University professors, and law firm leaders.

As a Benefactor Sponsor, Selendy Gay was proud to support the Celebration 70+ event, which also featured exhibits and conversations around some of today's most prevalent issues, including censorship, international women's rights, gender equity, ESG, and artificial intelligence.
