

District Court Denies Motion to Dismiss in BitMEX Class Action

04/04/24

In a victory on behalf of a putative class of investors who traded on BitMEX, a large cryptocurrency exchange and derivative trading platform, the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of New York denied a motion to dismiss in Messieh, et al. v. HDR Global Trading Limited, et al. This case asserts violations of the Commodity Exchange Act (“CEA”) against BitMEX and its founders.

In denying the motion, the Court held, among other things, that the transactions were domestic (and therefore actionable under the CEA), that the claims were timely, that the operative complaint adequately pleaded violations of the CEA, and that the plaintiffs had sufficiently pleaded actual damages.
