

Andrew Dunlap Publishes Article in the New York Law Journal on Training and Empowering the Next Generation of Lawyers

05/17/19

Andrew Dunlap recently published an article in the New York Law Journal providing insight on the numerous challenges faced by associates at major traditional firms. As the lead partner for Selendy & Gay's recruiting and training programs, he explains the firm's departure from tradition through its innovative approach in training young attorneys to become their generation's class of top litigators.
