Anna Bernardis is Director of Business Development at Selendy Gay, where she develops and leads business development and marketing plans that advance the firm's strategic growth objectives.

Anna has more than 10 years of experience in managing business development initiatives and teams at law firms, as well as consulting and professional services companies. Prior to joining Selendy Gay, she was a Director of Marketing and Business Development for Omni Bridgeway. In this role, she managed integrated business development, marketing, and communications plans for investment management professionals across the Americas.

Previously, Anna held leadership positions on the business teams of two leading law firms, Ropes & Gray and Kobre & Kim. She also served as Senior Manager, Marketing and Business Development at K2 Integrity, a global risk advisory firm.

Anna has extensive experience leading cross-functional teams, collaborating with C-suite executives and practice leaders, and implementing data-driven marketing tools and campaigns.

Anna earned a J.D. from New York Law School and a B.S. degree in Information Design and Corporate Communication from Bentley University.
